

Wilson Hopes to Translate Into Action at Peace Conference Ideals of United States in War

In Address to Congress States He Had Considered It His Paramount Duty to Attend—Pays Glorious Tribute to American Forces for Splendid Service and to People at Home for Their Enthusiastic War Effort

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Congress in joint session today heard President Wilson's speech in which he said he had decided not to go to the peace conference and give his views on the part the government should take in the post-war problems.

He was received with an ovation and the announcement with cheers, in which some senators joined the Republicans who were in the majority. The president did not speak of the war or the peace, except when the president referred to the American soldiers and mentioned the names of Pershing and Sims. The president did not say a word about the war, the war problems, or the peace.

The president did not speak of the war or the peace, except when the president referred to the American soldiers and mentioned the names of Pershing and Sims. The president did not say a word about the war, the war problems, or the peace.

There was no time in the course of his address said:

"There has been a time when I last stood before you to fulfill my constitutional duty to report to you from time to time information on the state of the union has been so crowded with other matters that I have not had time to speak of the great results which I cannot hope to give you an adequate picture of the changes which are taking place in the war, the far-reaching changes which have been wrought in the life of our country by the war. You have yourselves witnessed such things as have never been seen before and those who stand at the midst of them and are a part of them are the ones who will be to say what they think of them."

But many great outstanding facts are unmistakable and constituting the chief features of the war with which it is our duty to deal. To start with, there has been a call for legislative and executive action which must grow out of the war, and which must be carried through to a successful issue.

None More Ready for Test

"None more ready for test," said Mr. Wilson, "than we are now. We have been given a mandate with a fatal soundingness never known before. It is our duty to do all that we can to help the cause of justice and to reach a just and lasting peace."

Then followed a series of remarks on the war, the war problems, and the war effort.

Masks in Towns Compulsory

Mon., A. G. MacKay, minister of health, handed out the following statement to the press Monday morning:

"The first mask law in the province was no means over in this province, and no cases were reported Saturday and Sunday.

Along with the first mask law, there are still 40 cases in the hospital, some 40 cases in the community, and one case in the hospital district.

A trained nurse was sent across from London to help the nurses in the county. A student goes by Tuesday's train to give assistance.

McGarrigle, general road foreman of that district, reported to Bishop, Kirkmuir, Monitor, Conroy, Loyalty and St. Paul hospitals.

A Loyalty hospital has been opened in the Brechin area, and a Loyalty hospital in the town of St. Paul.

GERMANY HAS NOW FILLED UP TOWNS OF WARTHOG SURRENDER

RAEBEL, Dec. 2.—It is reported from Berlin that the government has issued a decree under the terms of the armistice that all towns and cities in Germany will be open to the exception of the battlefields.

Koenig, the cruiser which sank the British liner Lusitania, was taken to England and is now being repaired.

The last of the series of submarines left Heligoland. No submarine has been lost since the Armistice, but losses have been delivered to the Allies.

The clearing of mines from the Baltic has begun. The little German fleet is now being used to cross without a pilot.

WITH TROOPS ON POINT OF ENTERING GERMANY, CURRIE CALLS ON THEM TO KEEP GLORIOUS RECORD UNSULLIED

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS, Nov. 29.—Archibald Currie, general commanding the Canadian corps, issued the following special order of the day to the Canadian troops:

"Some of you have already come home while others are about to march home. You have been separated from your families, and now your mighty efforts are rewarded.

"Your efforts have been demonstrated on the battlefield and in the field of labor. Your strength has been tested and your endurance tried.

"The will of God you have won. Marching triumphantly through Europe, you have won your freedom, family, and at our mercy. Justice has come. Retribution has come. The consciousness of the righteousness of your cause has come. The world has seen the example of self-sacrifice, which has inspired the most ferocious and unscrupulous nation, which in 1914 set aside the principles of civilization, and now your mighty efforts are rewarded.

"The world would have been kept employed at wages sufficient for the maintenance of its members, and you have obtained employment. Another grant to appropriate money for transportation of these workers to Germany is being made, and we are further to advise that a worker be paid

This action was taken after Frank Morrison, secretary of the Canadian Commission to the Protection of American Soldiers, told the conference that the troubles in Austria and Hungary were due to the lack of work for men who wanted to work, and that unless work could be found for them, the country would be unable to support itself.

V. E. Macay, president of the Civic Protection Commission, urged that the submission of industrial disputes to a labor adjustment board be continued, and that the only way for the country to maintain the morale of the workers and their organization of employers and employees.

Mr. Bloodgood, of Milwaukee, chairman of the next-of-kin committee of the Canadian Commission to the Protection of American Soldiers, asserted that no man should be demobilized until he could be put into a job.

Samuel Gompers and others spoke along similar lines.

The Daily Poem

LET OUR FEARS FLY.

Let our day fly. Its folds we know.

Our greater gladness ne'er did blow.

Home is where we are.

That faith in duty brings no shame.

But grief with gladness mixes well.

For freedom gained, not fearing fame.

They lit the torch for victory's glow.

To mark the path where we should.

That nobly won, and without pain.

With thanksfulness, not boasting show.

Let our day fly. JEAN WALKER.

On motion of Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, chairman of the foreign relations committee, the resolution was referred to that committee. There followed a discussion of the merits of the measure.

A joint resolution introduced by Representative Roscoe C. Turner, Republican, proposes that congress declare that the measure "constitutes an inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office if he should be absent from the country for more than 60 days." The president was referred to the judiciary committee.

The resolution was referred to the committee on foreign affairs.

President Wilson Hopes For Formal Peace Declaration "By Time Spring Has Come"

Will Keep in Close Touch by Cable and Wireless With Congress Which Will be Informed of All That is Going on—Has no Solution For American Railroad Problem

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—In an address to Congress yesterday President Wilson formally announced his intention to go to Paris for the peace conference, saying the Allied governments have accepted principles enunciated by him in his message.

The president said that it was paramount duty to be present.

Referring to his announcement that the Allies had accepted his plan, he removed the cable restrictions upon the transmission of his message to America, the president said he had taken over the American system of telegraphy to make a unified system available.

Hoped for Co-operation.

Mr. Wilson said he hoped that he would have the co-operation of the public and of congress, saying that there was no time to lose. He said his personal counsel and advice would be presented to the president, and that congress would not object to conference.

The three-year naval building program had been completed, he said.

The president's naval building program had been completed, he said.

No time was available to consider the declaration of peace by treaty "By the time spring has come."

All the time available was devoted to the railroad problem, for which the president had no solution.

He said he had no solution to offer.

He said he had no time to carefully study by congress, saying it would be a disservice to the country, and to the railroads to permit a return to old conditions under private management of the railroads.

The president declared he stands ready to release the railroads from government control as soon as the railroads show signs of readiness to be managed on their own.

No time could be obtained now, the president said, but as soon as the armistice is signed, and the railroads are released, business would be released as far as possible.

President Wilson said that congress would not object to conference.

Mr. Wilson said he had no time in
